

Port and Harbor joins wetlands lobbying efforts in Washington

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

This Tuesday, Hancock County Port and Harbor director Harold "Buz" Olsen is catching a flight to Washington, D.C.

He is a man on a mission. Along with four other representatives of the Mississippi Gulf Coast Wetlands Coalition, he will appear before House Sub-Committee hearings on water resources.

The coalition is one of many that will be in Washington this week to express support for and opposition to current proposed wetlands regulations which are expected to free more lands for development.

Olsen's directive is to support the new proposals in the hopes that the defining criteria will free 225 acres of land currently prohibiting development of the remaining 700 acres within the center of the park because of wetlands classification.

The fulfillment of Hancock County's Port Bienville Industrial Park as a viable economic development may depend on the outcome of these hearings.

The Port Bienville Industrial Park was purchased in the early 1960's. At that time, wetland considerations did not exist.

The 2,200 acres of land near Pearlright appeared ideal, said Olsen. It was surrounded by navigable waters which emptied into the Gulf of Mexico and was far removed from population.

A canal was dredged, under direction of the Corps of Engineers, the spoils were spread within the park to build up low areas. It is these same low areas which are defined today as scrub, the third and farthest reaching link in the wetlands chain.

"Just how much is enough?" asked Olsen.

"Present criteria makes the entire Mississippi Gulf Coast wetlands."

"Under the existing manual, one of the ways to define wetlands is by standing water. Land which holds water for more than seven days is considered a wetland. We are hoping for a compromise, say 15 days. Although down here, even that doesn't help us."

"Another way they define a wetland is classification by function and value. In this end, we might find some relief since the plots within the park are virtually locked in and serve little function to the wetlands surrounding the park."

"We are seeking some relief," Olsen added, "two other points of interest the coalition intends to pursue while in Washington have to do with mitigation and compensation for property under the fifth amendment."

He explained virtually all of the remaining 700 acres are unable to be sold at this time because guidelines on wetlands mitigation are not consistent.

"No one knows what book they are reading from. One day you are told the ratio for mitigation of wetlands is five for one, and another day it is two for one."

"And finally, when lands are declared wetlands, they become property of the United States government."

"If the government takes private property, the fifth amendment guarantees compensation."

"If you take it, I want something back to replace it."

"What will it be?"

Olsen said the Coastal coalition was formed about four months ago in response to a growing outcry for relief.

"We are trying to get information out to the public. The Southern Farm Bureau financed a video tape for us of present conditions in wetland designations from Hancock to

Absentee voting

Activity increases as election day approaches; voters 65 and over take advantage of privilege

You can vote absentee if...

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Registered voters may cast an absentee ballot under the following conditions:

- Older than 65 years;
- Enlisted or commissioned member of the United States Armed Forces, or a spouse or dependent of such member;

- Member of the Merchant Marine or American Red Cross or a spouse or dependent of such;

- Disabled war veteran who is a patient in any hospital and a citizen of Mississippi or spouse or dependent of such;

- Civilian attached to and serving outside of the U.S.

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Hancock County Circuit Clerk Pamela Metzler has observed a steady stream of voters trickling in and out of her office, casting their ballots for the Nov. 5 general election.

At least 15 persons per day, most of them over 65 years of age, have voted absentee since Monday, said Metzler. Any registered voter over 65 may vote absentee prior to the election.

The law, in effect for two years, was enacted to provide the elderly with ample opportunity to participate in elections.

"Some older people won't get out if it's raining, or are frequently in poor health," said Metzler. "This way, the candidates are guaranteed their supporters are voting, and the voters are able to exercise their rights. It's good for both groups."

"This is the first big election since it has been in effect," said Metzler. "It seems to be working."

To obtain an absentee ballot by mail, a voter or a member of his family must call the circuit clerk's office and submit his name and address, which will be verified. An application, which must be completed by the voter, and ballot will be mailed by the clerk's office.

If the voter is temporarily or permanently disabled, the completed application and ballot must be witnessed by someone over 18 years of age. Anyone else voting absentee must have the application and back of the ballot's return envelope notarized.

The application must be returned in a white envelope which is provided by the clerk's office, while the ballot must be

Hancock receives highest state accreditation level

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Hancock County School Board was informed Thursday that the school district received the highest accreditation the state allows, a level three.

The board approved a reduction in the cafeteria staff at Hancock North Central Elementary School since the breakfast program was cancelled due to transportation schedule difficulties.

Emergency repairs for a transmission on a school bus and the purchase of two sewerage lift station motors for the high school, at $3,082 total, were approved by the board.

In other business the board approved:

- to accept the low quote of $2,787 for the purchase and installation of an engine for bus No. 7 from Gerry Lane Motors;

- advertisement for the purchase of a water tank for Hancock North Central

Elementary School; vocational supplies and equipment for Hancock High School; and spring sports equipment for the high school baseball and track teams;

- payment of $731.13 to the Mississippi Forestry Commission for the plowing of firelanes on Sect. 16, townships 5-7 south, range 14 west;

- the resignation of Debbie LaFontaine as a teacher assistant at Gulfview Elementary School, effective October 3;

- a request for extended sick leave for Myrtle Lee Jordan, October 7-11;

- recommendations for the employment of Valerie Ladner, assistant teacher, Gulfview Elementary; Charles Yates, substitute electricity teacher, Hancock County Vo-Tech Center; Kim D. O'Brien, Sally Moran Atkinson, Louise Kolb, Laura Jackson, Winston Ausmer Sr. and Rebecca Peterson, substitute teachers, Hancock High School; Christine Garcia, Lisa Oliver, Charlene Partridge, Leslie Besancon, Angela Johnston, Sally Atkinson and Roberta Clark, substitute teachers, Gulfview Elementary; Cissy Spence, substitute teacher, Hancock North Central Elementary, all for the 1991-92 school year;

- request to accept out-of-district students who have previously attended in Hancock school district;

- amendment of the 1991-92 school food service application and agreement to include breakfast for two Life Skills Special Education Classes;

- for the high school basketball teams to travel to Pearl River, La. on December 11-13; to Chalmette, La. on December 26-28; and to Northshore, La. on January 24.

Planning Magnolia Ball

Members of the decorating committee of the Magnolia Ball, which will benefit Diamondhead Academy and the Diamondhead Cultural and Performing Arts Association, are shown Thursday at the Country Club, where the event will be staged November 23. From left are Barbara Boos, Laura Almerico, Carol Eckrich, Delora Diekema, Sue Stewart and Ann Jackson. Entertainment will be provided by The Jammies. Political forum set Tuesday

A political forum for local candidates with opponents in the November general election is scheduled for Tuesday, Oct. 29, 7 p.m., at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

Each candidate will be given five minutes for an introduction and a campaign statement, said Cindy Vernon, Chamber of Commerce executive director.

The chamber-sponsored event will give the audience an opportunity to submit questions for the candidates.

Index cards will be given to the audience members as they enter. After questions are written, the cards will be collected and questions divided by offices sought. The candidates for each office will select questions at random.

Each candidate will have up to two minutes to reply.

The forum is not meant to be a debate by the candidates.

Qualified electors are encouraged to attend and take this opportunity to see and hear all the candidates.

For more information, call the chamber at 467-9048.

In Memoriam

In Memory Of
ALAN PIAZZA

'What's Wrong, Momma?'
 There's never a day I don't cry out loud.

But I don't mind—
 You see, my little boy is gone. Oh, he was a man the day he went away.

But to his Momma he was her baby boy.

That fate-filled day of long ago—of just yesterday—of the tomorrow you never dream will come.

That sorrowful, hateful, terrible day that was just this morning, coming without warning—

An avalanche of broken dreams...

Screams in your mind...
 Screams in the night...

Fright, icy cold and pillaging your soul.

Piercing pain, wrenching the days from your grasp.

And in turn grasping you at night and holding you to watch the grizzly sight again and again, night after night.

Allowing you only to meet each day with a battered soul and body bruised from the nightmare.

And it must be a nightmare...
 It can't be real!

Not this!
 It's happened to someone else, not me!

Tomorrow, I'm sure, I'll wake and it'll be gone.

And this Momma's baby boy will be back playing a song,

And saying, "Momma, what's wrong?"

Women's Aglow meets Tuesday

Women's Aglow, an interdenominational fellowship, will meet Tuesday, Oct. 29, at the Waveland Resort Inn, 404 Hwy. 90.

The Dutch treat dinner will start at 6 p.m. Reservations are required for dinner.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Guest speaker is Rev. Joan Hendry. She was ordained by the Assembly of God in 1977, and evangelizes over most of the nation.

Aglow chapter spokesperson Edith Palmer said of Rev. Hendry, "Through her ministry, blind eyes have been opened; the deaf can hear and others are walking out of wheelchairs."

"Come fellowship with us. Learn how to move in the freedom of the Spirit and apply the Word daily to your life."

For reservations call Julie Howell, 467-0030, or Edith Palmer, 467-7507, after 6 p.m.

CHRISTMAS DOLL CLASS

This special class will be for those who would like to make a porcelain doll for Christmas. The class will start Tuesday, Nov. 12 from 9 a.m. to noon for three to four weeks. Maxine Williams, from Blue Mule Ceramics in Long Beach, will be here to teach the class.

The special cost for this class will be $25 plus cost of wig. All other materials will be furnished, including eyes. These should be very lovely and cherished gifts.

Emily Gardner will have a class for making the clothes for these dolls. There is no charge for this class. Class will start Tuesday, Nov. 12 from noon to 2 p.m.

If you are interested, call Arlene Johnson at 467-9292 to register. We have to limit the class to 20.

SWEAT SHIRT CLASS

Arlene Johnson will coordinate this class with Lucille Luke. The liquid embroidery classes will make some fun shirts. Maybe we will have enough cool weather to wear them before Christmas!

We will furnish one shirt, but you may bring your own if you want to make some for the family. We have the paints, teachers and time.

The class will be on Mondays, 9-11 a.m. starting Nov. 11. This class will also be limited to 20 with first preference going to those already in the classes. If we need to, we will do extra classes as they fill up.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

We will have a fun party at the Center Tuesday, Oct. 29 from noon to 1:30 p.m. Come in costume for prizes, refreshments and fun!

TRIPS

The Senior Travel Club will be going to Foley, Ala. Saturday, Nov. 23. The round trip fare is $15 (not including lunch). Tee is planning to have lunch at Crazy Horse restaurant for those interested. Call Tee at 467-9292 for reservations.

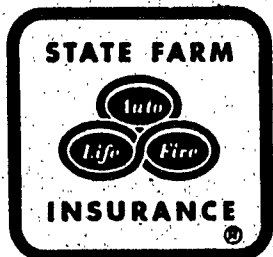

The trip to see the Saints in Dallas is sold out.

If you always wanted to see Australia, sign up for the March 1992 trip, 16 days for $3,225.

Wetlands

Jackson counties.

"The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has gone on record in support of the 1990 proposed regulations."

"We need to free up some of the land, considering, one-third of Hancock County is in the buffer zone, one-third is wetlands by present definition and most of the rest of the county is developed."

"By the 1990 census count, we are the fastest growing county in Mississippi with a 29 percent increase in population."

"People want jobs here. They do not want to have to work in Louisiana or Harrison County."

Olsen anticipates this week in Washington to be very wearing on his feet, as he described the majority of his time will be occupied in lobbying efforts.

"We will be meeting with Mark Maskyn who is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation. Hopefully he will direct us to the various congressional delegations."

Traveling to Washington with Olsen will be Michele Bishop, coordinator for the Mississippi Gulf Coast Wetlands Coalition; Clair Lauder, the executive director of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce; Michael Olivier, executive director of Harrison County Development Committee; and Mark Cumbeast, a real estate developer in Jackson County.

Lauder has been made spokesperson for the group, Olsen stated. "We are to be the first panel to testify, although when that will be, I don't know."

Olsen commented, "There may be people who think we (developers) are out to destroy the environment. But they are so wrong."

"We are just as concerned over 'our' environment."

"All we want to see is a balance. Let us have some area for people to work and live."

"I imagine it will be quite an interesting trip."

The Clean Water Act was enacted in 1972. Four government agencies were given regulatory power: the Soil Conservation Service; the Environmental Protection Agency; the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers; and the Wildlife and Fisheries Department.

Wetlands were defined in the federal register as, "those areas that are inundated or saturated by surface or ground water at a frequency and duration sufficient to support, and under normal circumstances do support, a prevalence of vegetation typically adapted for life in saturated soil conditions. Wetlands generally include swamps, marshes, bogs and similar areas."

By 1989 the four agencies formulated a manual which would provide them with descriptions for consistent regulation throughout the United States.

The definition of wetlands changed to include technical criteria and field indicators for identification.

In Mississippi, the 1989 manual expanded what was previously considered wetlands in both the Delta and Coastal areas.

Developers, real estate interests, farmers and others, support the 1990 proposed regulations, saying existing definitions are too restrictive and unnecessarily interfere with land usage.

Critics of the newly proposed regulations argue, if adopted, up to half of the nation's wetlands would lose federal protection and be open to development.

At present, the 1990 proposed regulation changes by the Bush administration are being field tested and results from those tests, by the four agencies, are expected to be in by the end of this year.

The public comment period has been extended to December 14, 1991 according to current DEQ reports. Comments may be addressed to Gregory Peck, chief of wetlands and aquatic resources branch, mail code (A-104F), U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, 401 M Street, South West Washington, D.C., 20460.

St. Vincent de Paul youth trick or treat for the poor Thursday

The St. Vincent de Paul Youth Council will trick or treat door to door throughout the community for non-perishable food items Thursday from 3 to 5:30 p.m. Foods to be distributed to local families.

Students of St. Clare

Elementary School, fourth through eighth grades, will collect in the spirit of "trick or treat" — give the poor something good to eat.

The youth council is a newly formed extension of the St. Vincent de Paul Society located in Waveland.

The goal of the youth council is to assist those locally in need. They will offer services such as grass cutting, grocery shopping and home assistance to the elderly of the community.

Anyone (grades 4-8) interested in joining the youth council is asked to contact Geri Richardson, 467-5148 or Jay Fleuriel, 467-0200.

Halloween Eve festival planned at Choctaw Plaza

Kmart in Waveland will offer a "Safe Halloween Festival" Wednesday night from 6-9 inside the store in Choctaw Plaza in Waveland.

McGruff the Crime Dog will be on hand to greet children. Games and prizes for children and their parents will be offered, including a cake walk and haunted house.

Children may compete for prizes for the best costume, or participate in a coloring contest. Coloring sheets are available at Kmart or the Waveland

Police Department.

Children may "trick or treat" for goodies at the following Choctaw Plaza locations: Cato's, Payless, LaVilla and Delchamps.

"We have a well-lighted, safe area," said Kmart manager Paul McElveen. "We would like all area children to come out and enjoy this safe alternative to Halloween."

Brass Anchor holds benefits

The Brass Anchor Barroom on Highway 90 is donating proceeds from two special events to the family of Darlene Wilson to help with funeral costs.

While a band entertains Halloween night a $2 optional admittance charge will be collected at the door.

On Saturday, Nov. 2, beginning at noon, tickets to a Turkey Shoot will be sold for $2. Turkey Shoot prizes include a night at the Waveland Resort Inn, a tire and balance rotation on a car, a 14-point lube job for a car and many other donations of services by local merchants.

All proceeds from the two events will be given to the Wilson family.

Wilson was found dead on the Highway 90 on October 6. The sheriff's department is still searching for a blue metallic Pontiac LeMans, model year 1982-86.

Republican • District 5

Hancock County is one of the fastest growing counties in Mississippi. We must solve the many current problems and prepare now for the fine future which awaits us.

I will work to make these problems priorities . . .

Economic Development and Job Creation - We cannot stand higher taxes. To provide our needed services, we must increase the tax base through industrial development and job creation. We must stop waste in spending and take advantage of more state and federal aid.

Gravel Streets and Roads to be built up where needed and paved. Maintenance cost on gravel streets and roads over a period of five to ten years would pay for modern pavement if done now.

Drainage - A major drainage plan was developed for the Board of Supervisors in 1983 that would solve local drainage problems, stop infiltration in the sewage system and prevent damage to streets and roads. The Board of Supervisors never acted to implement this important plan.

Waste Disposal - The 1992 budget for waste disposal alone is $452,000. This amount includes subsidies to commercial garbage collectors, trash haulers, Bay St. Louis and Waveland. The cost per household county wide of your tax is $3.80 per month and still no curbside garbage service in rural areas. I will propose and work for county wide garbage pick up at each home.

Law and Order - We must have better paid, well-trained law officers and the equipment to get the job done. The Sheriff's Department should be adequately funded at all times.

County Wide Full Time Fire Departments. Better Pay and Benefits For Full and Part Time County Employees.

Improved Recreation Programs and Facilities For All Citizens County Wide.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

A political forum is scheduled for Tuesday, October 29, 7 p.m. at the Hancock County Civic Center, Longfellow Road.

The forum is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and invitations have been sent to all Hancock County candidates with opposition in the November General Election.

This should be a good time for qualified electors to see and hear their favorite office seekers.

Persons attending will be given index cards to submit questions upon entering the forum.

These questions will then be divided into the various offices of responsibility, and the candidates will then randomly select cards to respond to.

I am hoping that all candidates, as well as a large number of concerned voters, will attend.

I hope to see you at the forum.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Construction bill contains $37 million for state

More than $37 million for projects in the State of Mississippi are included in the military construction appropriations bill sent to the President, said U.S. Senator Thad Cochran.

Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the $8.6 billion bill funds construction of military projects in the United States and overseas.

"These funds will allow our Mississippi military installations to continue to operate in an efficient, modern and highly-effective manner," Cochran said.

Funds for Mississippi facilities include:

- * $18.82 million for facilities and paving at Key Field in Meridian,
- * $600,000 for work on the squadron operations facility at Columbus Air Force Base,
- * $3.4 million for a training development squadron building at Keesler Air Force Base,
- * $7 million to build a warehouse at the Seabee Base in Gulfport,
- * $200,000 for National Guard Army alternations at Marks,
- * $992,000 for an overhaul maintenance facility for the National Guard in Tupelo,
- * $600,000 for a maintenance facility at Camp Shelby, the National Guard training base near Hattiesburg.

* $1.2 million for paving roads at Camp Shelby,

* $1.6 million for fire station expansion and a fire training facility at the Naval Air Station at Meridian,

* $546,000 for range modifications at Camp McCain, near Grenada,

* $723,000 for a maintenance facility at Senatobia, and

* $1.3 million for a maintenance facility at West Point, Miss.

The Senate approved the House and Senate conference committee report on the bill.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland should find other ways of funding operations

Dear Editor,

With dismay and disbelief I read the Echo report that Waveland intends to again raise water and sewer rates. The burden of city utilities bills is intolerable and unjust since all citizens do not pay a fair share.

Think about it a moment—only homeowners are hit with these charges—everyone living in condos, apartments and such gets off scott-free.

Businesses can write off these costs, but IRS says NO to you and me... only real estate taxes are deductions.

The landowners of vacant lots do not pay one cent either, since costs of governing have been shifted to homeowners as city utilities fund much of Waveland's operating budget.

Every year Mayor Longo bragged, "No increase in property taxes," which was true, but his scheme to fund city operations through utility bills is one reason he's no longer mayor.

Waveland residents already pay the highest minimum water and sewerage charges in the area. We don't need more service charges—we need a better way to fund the city.

I urge every citizen to attend the next meeting and fight for your rights... for what is right.

Regards,
Royce P. Kaupp

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

You can't pander in a vacuum

There has been a lot of hype in the news lately.

From the nomination of Clarence Thomas to the latest Kennedy scandal, the American public is consistently falling into the trap of focusing their time and energy on events valuable not for their relevance to our everyday lives, but for how well they entertain.

We are titillated by the lowest incident involving sex, gossip and personal trivia while ignoring the real issues that threaten to tear us apart as a nation.

Many chose to blame the news media for their choice of coverage, claiming irresponsibility or bias, but the real irresponsibility is our own. As Gerald might say, "You can't pander in a vacuum."

For example, hundreds of reporters from every state have written thousands of stories on the check-bouncing scandal on Capitol Hill, an incident that while showing some leaders to be personally irresponsible, actually cost the taxpayers very little money.

Letters of protest have poured into Washington from outraged constituents, and potential opponents of incumbents caught overdrawn their accounts are already planning their TV commercials for the next campaign.

Why are we not just as outraged that our nation is trillions of dollars in debt, and that we spend almost as much for interest payments to the Germans and Japanese as we do for national defense?

Why are we not just as furious that our children are under-educated and reared in single-family homes, and that our nation's system of health care is unaffordable to all but the most affluent? Are we no longer worried that the United States has only introduced one major technological product—the personal computer—into the world's economy over the past 15 years?

We are a media generation, easily entertained by inanity and readily seduced by the glow from the nearest TV screen. We absorb, but we rarely think.

Intellectually lazy and soft from years of prosperity, we seem to have forgotten how to build. Content to snuggle under the blanket of our service economy, we forget to ask the tough questions and no longer expect solutions to problems.

We have, finally, learned to appreciate the art of good politics more than the art of good government, and that is the height of irresponsibility.

The crack St. Stanislaus team, alias "Rock-A-Chaws," overwhelmed the Ramblers of New Orleans in a rather decisive manner. After a few minutes of play "Dick" Gannon the speedy little halfback raced seventy yards for a touchdown. A moment later he intercepted a pass and ran sixty yards through a broken field for another. By alternate bucks and runs the ball was worked to the Rambler's seven-yard line. And Neelis carried it over. Cross tackles by Maher and Tyner again brought the oval within striking distance of the enemy's goal. McKinney brought it over in easy fashion. At the end of the first quarter, the score was 25-0, in favor of Commerce's Huskies. At the end of the second quarter the score was 45-0; third quarter 57-0 and fourth quarter Stanislaus 82-0 over the Ramblers. The spectacular end runs of Gannon, the line plunging of McKinney, Maher and Tyner and the tackling of "Jumbo" Martinez, frequently brought cheers from the onlookers.

Blue Devils drop Rocks 34-21

BY TRACI BONNEY
Despite a strong start, the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws lost 34-21 to the Pearl River Central Blue Devils Friday night in PRC's homecoming game.

Four minutes into the game, SSC had the night's first touchdown on a reception by Jeremiah Fuhrer. With a successful PAT, the score stood at 7-0 with 8:04 left in the quarter.

The Blue Devils weren't able to move the ball after receiving the return kick, and were forced to punt.

However, the Rocks kept the ball for only two plays. On their third attempt to drive downfield, SSC was hit for a 2-yard loss and fumbled.

The Blue Devils recovered, moved the ball to the SSC 13 in two plays, then took it over the goal line on a pass from Bobby Thaxton to Nicky Stockstill. The PAT was good, putting the score at 7-7 with 4:00 on the first quarter clock.

The quarter ended with the ball back in Blue Devil hands after SSC failed to move it into the end zone.

Less than three minutes into the second quarter, PRC had its second touchdown. Aided by two penalties against SSC, the Blue Devils moved the ball to the 4-yard line on a six-play drive. On the next play, several Rock-A-Chaws clung to the Blue Devil ball carrier, but didn't stop him from crossing the goal line.

With the extra point, the Blue Devils led 14-7 with 9:44 left in the half.

The Rocks held onto the ball for 11 plays after receiving the kick, but turned over on downs. The Blue Devils copied the SSC drive, moving the ball over on downs 11 plays after getting it. The half ended with no further scoring.

The second half began with the ball still in the Blue Devils' possession, but Rock Mickey Quinlan picked off a pass and put the football in SSC hands for four plays.

Sprint

However, the visiting Rocks ended up punting. On the next play, Blue Devil Dewayne Pullens took the ball in from the 34 for a TD. The PAT gave the home team a 21-7 lead with 6:39 in the quarter.

The Rocks took the ball on the return kick and almost gave it back to the Blue Devils when Pullens intercepted a pass. However, a penalty was called against PRC for roughing the passer, which left the ball in SSC possession.

Five plays later, Rock Mike Lee snagged a screen pass from Bill Dreher and ran it 43 yards for SSC's second TD of the night. The PAT kick was good, leaving the score at 21-14 with 3:04 in the quarter.

The Blue Devils kept the ball for the last three minutes of the quarter and gained their fourth touchdown 2:45 into the last quarter.

After moving the ball to the 1-yard line, Blue Devil Terrence Smith forced his way over the goal line, dragging a pack of Rock-A-Chaws with him. The extra point gave PRC a 28-14 edge with 9:15 on the clock.

The Rocks took the return kick and tried to move the ball, but ended up turning it over on downs at midfield after a failed attempt to fake a punt and pass the ball.

The Blue Devils took the ball from midfield to the 12 in six plays, then sent it into the end zone for their fifth and final touchdown. They almost lost the play when Orlando Buford fumbled, but Johnathan Mitchell recovered in the end zone to score the TD.

The PAT attempt failed, leaving the score at 34-14 with 3:10 on the clock.

SSC closed the score gap on a seven-play drive. On fourth and long five, Quinlan caught a pass in the end zone to give the Rocks their last TD of the match. He went down with a slight injury, but left the field under his own power.

The PAT was good, and the score was 34-21 with six seconds left on the clock. A couple of plays ran out the clock to end the game.

SSC coach Ken Lyons commented after the game, "It was a competitive ballgame. The Blue Devils really got after it; they executed better than we did."

"We had several opportunities we didn't capitalize on, and that's what made the difference."

"PRC has the desire to go for the district crown, and I think they stand a good chance to get it. They convinced me."

Hawks fall to Maroon Tide

Picayune's Byron Magee ran 28 yards on a fake punt with 6:03 left to play and set up a late touchdown, ending a second half comeback by the Hancock High Hawks Friday night in Picayune.

Hawk fans watched hopes of a Division 8 Class 4-A playoff berth slip further from reach with a loss to the Maroon Tide, 19-12. Both teams had 2-1 records prior to Friday night's contest.

Turnovers and penalties plagued each team during the game, with three fumbles, two interceptions and a blocked punt playing major roles.

Neither team was able to move the ball during the first quarter, with strong defensive play shown by the Hawks and Maroon Tide.

Picayune's first score of the night was early in the second quarter. It began with a handoff from quarterback Jonathan Moeller to freshman Byron Magee, who was stopped by Hawk Ryan Lee. Magee then scrambled for 37 yards, setting up a one-yard carry by Jamie Wilson for six points, with the PAT added by Tyrone David.

the Tide was ahead 13-0 at the half.

Hancock opened the third quarter with a relentless ground attack on a nine-play drive, culminating with a touchdown by Goff. The PAT attempt failed, and the Hawks trailed 13-6.

Following an exchange of possessions, it was Picayune's turn to commit a turnover. Hawk Jerry Garrett recovered the fumble at the Picayune 13.

Quarterback Doug Authement hit Dennis Devilbiss with an eight-yard pass to close the gap to 13-12 with 9:31 left to play. A two-point conversion failed.

On the next series, Picayune used a fake punt to set up their third and final score by Jamie Wilson.

The Hawk's final chance for victory ended on an interception by Torino Jones with 3:05 left in the game.

Tigers claim sudden death victory

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Bay High School Tigers grasped a homecoming victory from the jaws of the tenacious Perry Central Bulldogs Friday night in a sudden death 13-12 win.

Both teams were able to score touchdowns during the extension of time plays, but it was sophomore Tiger kicker Jeff Hopgood that made an extra point kick count when it was needed most.

The game opened with the Bulldogs accepting an out of bounds kick on their own 20-yard line.

Despite two successful first down gains, the Bulldogs were forced to punt nine plays later from the Tiger 49.

The Tigers received the ball on their 26. Ten plays and three completed downs brought the Tigers 12 yards within goal where the Bulldogs held back the fighting cats.

The ball was turned over to the Bulldogs and a first down run to the 36-yard line gave Perry Central a move forward.

The Tigers held and Perry Central returned the ball with a punt that was received on the Tiger 34 and stopped on the 35.

The Tigers handed off to wideback Adrian Whavers who ran the ball to the 44 for a first down when the first quarter ended.

The Bulldogs held tight. Four plays, with only five yards gained, forced the Tigers to return the ball with a punt to Perry Central.

A 10-play Bulldog drive resulted in the first touchdown of the game when quarterback Brian Woods fell over the goal line with 4:30 left in the half.

The Bulldogs failed in a 2-point conversion attempt and the score remained 6-0.

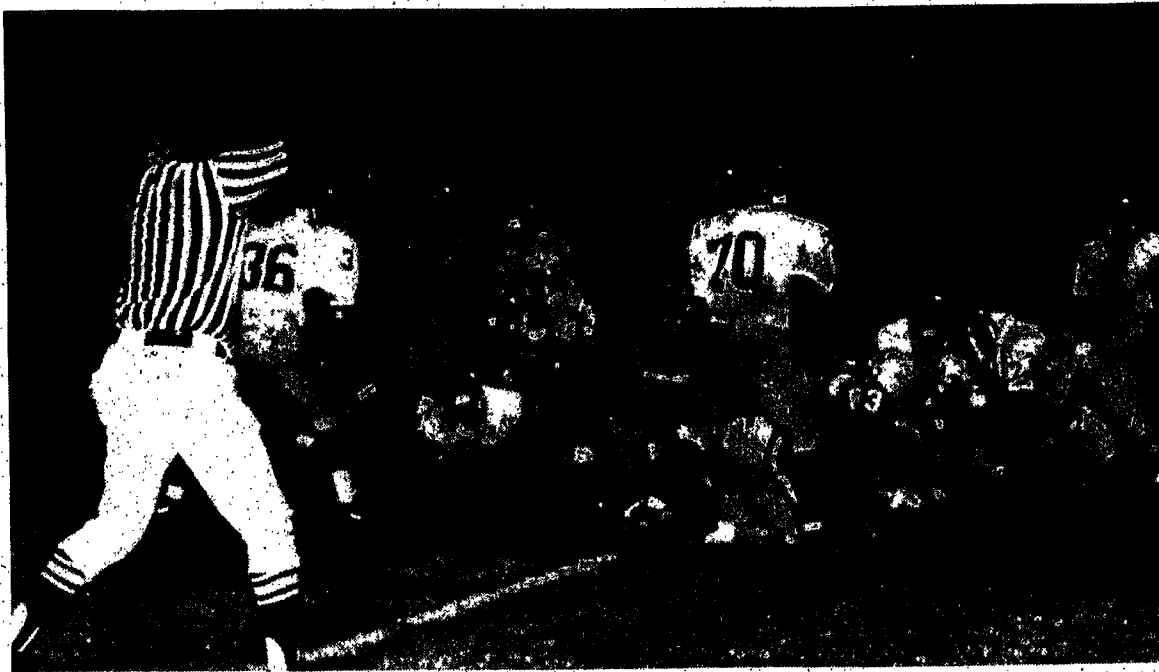

After receiving the return kick, the Tigers rallied with a seven-play drive that gave them their first TD with 39 seconds left in the half.

Tailback Dwayne Antoine scored the touchdown, tying the score at 6-6. The 2-point Tiger conversion attempt failed and the score stood.

The half ended with the ball in the Bulldogs' possession. The second half started with the Tigers picking up a bounce on the kick to bring it in to their 40.

Five plays and three first downs brought the Tigers to the Bulldog 21.

Whavers ran the ball to the 8 on the second play and one more push took the home team to the 6-yard line.

A mishandled ball upset the intended score when the Bulldogs recovered the fumble on their 9-yard line.

Seven plays by Perry Central gave them one first down before they were forced to punt to the Tigers on a fourth down attempt.

The Tigers caught the ball on their 5-yard line and ran it in to the 18. Two plays and a first down completion on the 30 followed.

The Bulldogs held and the Tigers returned the ball with a kick.

With 15 seconds left in the third quarter the Bulldogs tried to pass twice and were forced back behind the line of scrimmage on their 35 when the third quarter ended.

Neither team was able to score in the fourth quarter. In the last 9 seconds, the Bulldogs passed and Bay High's defensive back Gerrit Carver intercepted within yards of the goal line.

The clock ran out and the game went into overtime.

Perry Central scored on a fourth down attempt at the Tiger 7 when quarterback Bryan Wood passed to Leverett Moody and the Bulldogs led 12-6.

Perry Central tried for a 2-point conversion, but the Tigers held tight.

Bay High was given the ball on the 10-yard line. On their third attempt Whavers carried it over the line to tie the score 12-12.

In came Hopgood and the kick went over clean, sending the players and fans into a frenzy of victory with the final 13-12 score.

Coach Rocky Gaudin said, "All the credit goes to the kids and my coaches."

"We played with plenty of injuries tonight. All I could tell them was to suck it up and do their best, which they did."

"We worked just as hard for this victory as any of the larger schools. I'm proud of the team and am very excited."

Bay High will go into district title play against Poplarville next Friday. They stand 4-4 for the season and 4-1 in district.

THE OVERSTREET CAMPAIGN

FOR STATE SENATE #46
WISHES TO ADVISE
YOU THAT:

- ★We need a Republican State Senator who will actively oppose the style of the liberal Jackson/Dukakis Democratic party that we have here in this state.
- ★The ridiculous split of the Diamondhead voting precinct is proof that drastic reforms are needed in County Government.
- ★First of all, we need guidelines on how supervisors draw beat lines...Hancock beat lines are a good example.
- ★County beats should not overlap incorporated cities; the redundancy has got to go. We need to work to reduce the number of county beats wherever possible.
- ★City residents should not pay county taxes and city taxes.
- ★City Annexation bids should require that free elections be held in the proposed annexed area like is required in other states.
- ★We need a state senator who will fight to reduce to size of the State House and Senate and draw district lines at city and county lines instead of the present gerrymandered method we have now.
- ★I would like to thank my Democratic opponent for agreeing to appear with me on the numerous political forums we have already had in the past, and also the 2 or more to come in the near future.
- ★We need more support for the legitimate family unit instead of supporting anti-family welfare breeding programs.
- ★Reform education by eliminating state and federal controls over local school districts. This will eliminate the outrageous administration costs.

★And to remember on Nov. 5th to vote.

Wild things

Colorful flowers can enhance your landscape

"If you come to San Francisco... you're gonna meet some gentle people there... with flowers in their hair." Well, I've never been to San Francisco, but the lyrics from that popular 60's song always conjure up visions of serene and brightly colored wildflower meadows with beautiful dancing butterflies.

Most folks confuse wildflowers with weeds and often call them nasty names. We must recognize that weeds are plants out of place.

If that wildflower is where we want it, a weed it is no more. I guess it's true, "One man's trash is another's treasure." So much for that bit of philosophy. Now let's get down to the nuts and bolts of wildflowers.

Wildflowers are uncultivated flowering plants intrinsic to natural sites. However some wildflowers have been introduced into this country either deliberately or accidentally.

Granted, some folks don't consider naturalized plants wildflowers. Well, to each his own, I guess.

Wildflowers can be further classified as reseeding flowering annuals, biennials or hardy perennials. Other wildflowers include selected vines, small shrubs, ferns and some showy native grasses.

If you haven't noticed, wildflower meadows do not occur naturally in Mississippi but are actually an early part of plant succession.

This results from old field abandonment or forest clearing or burning. Wildflowers appear early but are soon overtaken by tall grasses, shrubs and eventually trees (the climax plant community).

Many wildflowers work well in formal or informal gardens. However, most are suited for informal, meadow-like masses or interplanted among evergreen landscape plants.

Planting wildflowers among evergreen shrubs prevents the flower bed from having to wear its birthday suit (slang for stark but naked) during the winter.

It should be noted that of the multitude of wildflowers, only a few dozen are dependable or showy enough for use in meadow situations. Also, never use toxic wildflowers in the landscape.

When developing your wildflower landscape, remember a beautiful wildflower garden to one person may be seen as a weed patch to another.

Therefore, include fences, benches, paths, fountains, pink flamingos (plastic ones, of course) or other landscape structures. These structures will provide continuity and distinguish the garden from a weed patch.

Before selecting wildflower species and developing your garden, make a thorough assessment of the planting area to ensure success. It is imperative to know the soil type, soil moisture conditions and light levels.

Many wildflowers tolerate conditions normally not considered ideal. For example, Black-eyed Susans and many Coreopsis species grow best in hot, dry sites.

However, when planted in high organic matter soils, they develop weak and leggy stems that fall over at flowering. In most cases it is best to adapt the plant species to the site rather than change the site to grow specific species.

Planting wildflowers at the proper time is also important.

This left only Coreopsis, Black-eyed Susan, Oxeye Daisy and Gaillardia the following growing season.

To avoid this problem, it gen-

COUNTY AGENT NOTES

By H.
Randall Smith

Most wildflowers, especially spring and summer blooming plants, established from seed should be planted in the fall (September through November).

This approach takes advantage of fall and spring rains and cold winter soils. Seeds planted during this time grow stronger and bloom better than those sown in late winter or early spring.

Planting during the fall also allows perennials adequate time to develop a deep root system and to flower the first growing season.

Container-grown transplants should be planted in the fall or early spring. However, they can be planted any time the soil is workable and water can be provided.

Existing and established plants can be divided when they are not actively growing or in bloom. These plants can be shared with friends and neighbors or used to simply extend your own flower beds.

Selection of the proper seed mix is important and can reduce many headaches and negative impacts on the pocketbook. There are many prepackaged mixes containing several wildflower species.

These general mixes contain some species that grow in our area and others not well adapted. Recent Mississippi trials have revealed poor survival of most species in these mixes after the first growing season.

erally best to sow a single or a mixture of recommended wildflower species. Such personalized mixes should contain several quick blooming annuals and several long-lived perennials. By the way, folks, doubling the seeding rates will not generally affect the final flower display. So keep that extra money in your pocket.

Proper soil preparation, planting and early management is also important in developing a successful wildflower garden. Wildflower meadows are best established from seed with minimum soil preparation.

The area should be lightly cultivated or broken to avoid bringing additional weed seeds into a germinable zone that accompanies deep tillage.

If the area is seriously infested with weeds, they should be properly addressed before soil preparation. However, some erosion-prone areas may be best left with intact sod.

Before planting your wildflower garden, have a soil analysis conducted at the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Soil Testing Lab.

Even though fertilizers are generally not necessary for wildflower establishment, the soil test can determine soil pH, phosphorous and potash levels.

These can be corrected prior to planting if a deficiency exists.

Low phosphorous and potash levels can also be corrected following establishment. After the area has been established, annual applications of an all-purpose garden fertilizer (5-10-10, 5-10-5) or suitable slow release organic or inorganic fertilizers can be used.

Remember, never use fertilizers that contain high nitrogen levels. These fertilizers promote rank growth, weak roots and poor flower displays.

Established plantings can be fertilized annually with a light application of an all-purpose garden fertilizer in the winter when most wildflowers begin actively growing.

Once the site has been properly prepared, mix the seed with sand, broadcast it over the area and lightly roll or rake the area to ensure good seed to soil contact.

Folks, whatever you do, never plant wildflowers too deep.

After planting, lightly mulch (pine needles, straw or weed-free hay) the area to prevent soil crusting from irrigation or rainfall. Irrigation may be necessary to help start the seedlings and prevent the young, tender plants from desiccating during prolonged droughts. This will promote optimum flowering and seed maturity.

Perennial wildflowers naturally occurring in rich woodland areas, benefit from the same soil preparation given to cultivated garden flowers. Clay and sandy soils can be improved by incorporating a one to two-inch layer of organic matter (peatmoss, finely ground bark, leaf mold or a combination) six inches deep into the soil.

When setting out wildflower transplants, use a one- to two-inch layer of mulch. Be careful because some wildflowers oppose mulches.

Since permanent wildflower meadows are not natural in Mississippi, weed control becomes important.

Several methods that are suitable include: hand pulling, burning under certain situations (special precautions, liabilities and permits encompass this method), mowing high during early summer after spring wildflowers have had time for seed maturation or in late fall or winter when perennial plants are dormant and the use of specifically labeled herbicides (be sure to read and follow all labels before using any pesticide).

Many folks may be wondering why discuss these plants. Well, let me tell you, the use of wildflowers in the landscape have many assets such as they return yearly from seed or underground structures, they withstand inclement environmental conditions, there are wildflowers for nearly every situation, they can provide seasonal color, they attract butterflies and birds, they generally do not require sprays or heavy fertilizer applications, they require minimum maintenance and they can reduce erosion.

As you can see, some wildflowers have a place in our home landscape and home environment. For more information about wildflowers ask for a copy of the new MCES publication "Wildflowers For Mississippi Meadows and Gardens."

So until next time, this is Randy Smith saying, don't be afraid to get down and wild in your flower garden.

Overseed lawns for year 'round green grass

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Mississippians could have a green lawn this winter, if they are so inclined. Now through the end of November is the time to overseed your lawn of warm-season grass with either perennial or annual ryegrass.

Dr. Don Blasingame, extension plant pathologist at Mississippi State University, edited some information I'd like to share about overseeding in the September 1991 Mississippi Turfgrass Association Newsletter.

The term "overseeding" (as used in this article) is the practice of scattering seed of a cool-season grass over an established warm-season turf. The main reason for overseeding is appearance.

As the permanent lawn grasses go dormant and lose color, the overseeded grasses take over so there is little change in color. In the dead of winter and in early spring, an overseeded lawn stands out like a green oasis in the brown desert of all your neighbors' lawns.

Most people say you have to be a little crazy to overseed a lawn since it extends the mowing season to a full 12 months.

The two main cool-season grasses for overseeding home lawns are perennial and annual ryegrass with perennial ryegrass being the best choice.

On the negative side, perennial ryegrass costs more than 1,000 square feet of lawn area and perennial ryegrass at the rate of 8 to 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

The grass seed must be evenly distributed over the existing lawn. This means using a rotary or drop seeder and applying half the seed walking back and forth across the lawn and then applying the remaining half of the seed by walking in directions perpendicular to the first pattern.

Under no circumstances should the seed be scattered by hand.

Rapid germination and establishment of the overseeded grass depends on good contact of the seed with moist soil. Bermudagrass lawns should be cut short (almost scalped) to improve seed contact with the soil.

Centipedegrass and St.

Augustinegrass lawns are sensitive to close mowing, so distribute the seed without any special preparation. Do not remove thatch from the lawn before overseeding.

Keep the seeded area moist with frequent and light watering to encourage germination and seedling establishment. Gradually reduce watering after germination.

Mow the grass as needed when the soil conditions and the grass seedling development permits. Use a freshly sharpened mower blade not one that has been dulled by a full summer of mowing.

Overseeded lawns are fertilized on a fairly regular basis. Apply about 6 pounds of 13-13-13 or equivalent per 1,000 square feet and then on a monthly basis apply a nitrogen source providing about 1 pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. As the permanent grass begins to green-up next spring, cut back on the fertilizer.

Are there alternatives to overseeding if you want a green lawn in winter? Yes, you might want to consider painting your dormant bermudagrass lawn. I did it one winter about 20 years ago, but that's another story.

Blue Jeans Garden Club

Seventeen members of the Blue Jeans Garden Club met Thursday, Oct. 17 for a regular monthly meeting and social.

President Mayola Rotherham read the opening prayer. The September minutes were read by secretary Beverly Coogan and the treasurer's report was presented by Cathleen Taconi.

During the business meeting numerous motions to support worthy local projects were address and unanimously approved. Awards committee chairman Betty Klein reminded members the November meeting is one of the most important judging events of the year for the Blue Jeans, and she again thoroughly explained the 'point' system.

Rotherham appointed Virginia Thomas to the nomination committee along with co-chairs Dot Feaheny and Betty Klein for the election of officers for 1992 at the November meeting.

Winner of the monthly "Half and Half" was Eunice Foret. A table arrangement of fresh flowers, home grown, was given as door prize to winner Mayola Rotherham.

Co-hostesses for the afternoon social, including the luncheon, were Jennie Ortis, Dot Feaheny, Alice Brechtel and Claire Conway.

The monthly birthday for the residents of Hotel Reed Nursing Center, sponsored by the auxiliary and co-hosted by Roslyn Weathers and Oris Planchard, was Thursday, Oct. 24.

Beth Gruzinskas, activity director, had the dining room decorated with a Halloween theme, and the atmosphere was festive. Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano, Roslyn Weathers led the singing, and Oris Planchard, Gloria Renicke and Pat Turnipseed went among the residents to visit and encourage them to join in the activity.

While 'Happy Birthday' was sung, the celebrants received gifts. All present participated in the singing and refreshments were served.

WEDDINGS, ENGAGEMENTS

diBenedetto-Pratte

The marriage of Patricia Anne diBenedetto and John Michael Pratte was solemnized October 5 at 2 in the afternoon during a Nuptial Mass at St. Louis Cathedral in New Orleans.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George diBenedetto of Bay St. Louis, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pratte of Tyler, Texas.

The Rev. Louis Lohan officiated at the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the Monteleone.

The bride, whose mother is the former Miss Dorothy Mary Hammer, studied economics at Mississippi State University and journalism at Mississippi University for Women. She is currently employed with First Investors Corporation.

The bridegroom, whose mother is the former Miss Helen Elaine Schwendt, was graduated with honors from the University of Texas and received a doctorate in physics from the University of Colorado. He is currently employed with Shell, U.S.A.

Following a tour of the Hawaiian islands, the couple will reside in New Orleans.

Mrs. John M. Pratte

Morel-Farve

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the September 27 wedding of Tammy Teresa Farve and Harry James Morel. Father Curtis O'Connell officiated the evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Farve Sr. of Bay St. Louis. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Morel Sr., also of Bay St. Louis.

Music was provided by soloist John Mason and organist Ollie McKenna.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white bridal satin with a V-neckline. The asymmetrical bodice featured pleats accented with seed pearls on one side and beaded appliques on the other. The Elizabethan sleeves were adorned with beaded appliques. Strings of pearls circled the sleeves.

The basque waistline flowed to a double butterfly chapel-length train decorated with beaded appliques.

The bride's headpiece was a band of crystals, pearl tops and sprays and tiny silk flowers. At back a double pouf held a double tiered fingertip veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses and tiny red flowers, accented with red and white ribbon.

Joy Gros was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Heddi Peterson, Brandy Farve, Tisa Brandon, Paula Farve and April Farve.

The attendants wore red taffeta gowns which featured sweetheart necklines and large puff sleeves worn off the shoulder. The mermaid-style bodices featured high-low hemlines accented at the knee with candy box bows trimmed with rhinestones.

They carried white silk rose bouquets with matching red ribbons.

Junior bride was Alicia Faucetta. Ring bearer was Joshua Slocum.

The junior bride wore a gown and veil similar to the bride's. She carried a rounded bouquet of white silk roses and tiny red flowers, accented with red and white ribbons.

Michael Morel Jr. was best man. Ushers were Scott Scarborough and Kenny Ncaise. Groomsmen were Randy Morel, Kevin Morel, Gerald Farve, Sam Schoonmaker and Kenneth Farve.

A reception followed at the Hancock County Civic Center. Before the wedding, the groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner.

The couple is making their residence in Waveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Morel

Health Dept. offers flu vaccinations

The Hancock County Health Department is offering Trivalent Type A and B flu vaccinations.

The vaccinations will be administered Mondays and Thursdays. They are available to anyone, especially the chronically ill, according to office manager Judy Yarborough.

She said those who are Medicare-eligible should take their Medicare cards with them when they visit the Health Department so that Medicare can cover the cost of the shot.

Those without their cards, as well as the general public, will be charged $6 for each vaccination.

The Health Department is located in the Human Services Complex on Longfellow.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club met Oct. 16 with 60 members and guests present. President Mrs. Clement J. Acker reported the club won first place in the Spanish Trail District for clubs with membership over 100.

The award is based on the year-end report of the club activities. The club also was awarded first place for scrapbook.

Mrs. Jan Brameyer presented a mini-workshop on flower arrangements. She did three arrangements that were then awarded to members as prizes. The arrangements were won by Mrs. Gerald Diekema, Mrs. Donald Lathrop and Ms. Annette Saucier.

A program was presented by Connie Breithoff and Bill Chapman, from Outside In, located in Bay St. Louis. Connie gave tips to enhance and embellish yards, patios, apartments, and homes. Bill explained the care and feeding of Bromeliads and demonstrated how to "plant" them on a piece of driftwood. The planted driftwood was donated to Diamondhead Academy to be used as part of a November fund raiser.

Pass Christian Garden Club

The Pass Christian Garden Club will meet Thursday, Nov. 7 at 11 a.m. at the Hancock Bank Civic Center, Scenic Drive, Pass Christian.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Parnell McKay and Mrs. Kay Chapman. Guest speaker will be Gerald Cochran, retired curator of Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and author on fish, birds, wildlife and wild flowers. Subject will be wild flowers.

For further information, call Mrs. McInnis Ward, 452-1761.

Coast Jazz Society

Members of the Mississippi Coast Jazz Society will sponsor their annual Dixieland Jazz Festival Sunday, Nov. 10, beginning at 2:15 p.m. at the Royal D'Iberville Hotel, Biloxi.

Five of the society's organized jazz bands will be on the program. Featured will be Joe Martin, renowned harmonica virtuoso.

The festival will start with a parade in the hotel parking lot led by Shelly Blount, followed by the Second Liners and their exotic umbrellas and one of the jazz bands.

The main part of the festivities will be in the main dining room at the Royal D'Iberville with room for plenty of dancing. The hotel will furnish a cash bar and dinner. Admission charges will be $5 for non-members; $3 for members, and $2 for students with ID.

Gulf Coast Ad Club

The Gulf Coast Ad Club will hold its monthly luncheon meeting Thursday, Nov. 7, 11:45 a.m. at the Biloxi Holiday Inn.

Guest speaker will be Connie Mason, a human behavior consultant. She will speak on "The Art of Using Your Whole Brain" based on the book of the same name by Katherine Benzinger, M.S., a national consultant who has helped individuals as well as large corporations make progressive changes. The book deals with defining and expanding the left brain/right brain theory.

Lunch will be $8 for members and $12 for non-members. For reservations call Ann Mills at 868-4328 or Susan Bosco at 868-1182.

SBA seeks award nominees

The U.S. Small Business Administration is accepting names of successful entrepreneurs and small business advocates in conjunction with the 1992 observance of Small Business Week, set for May 10-16.

Interested persons can submit nominations to Harold "Buz" Olsen, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and a member of the SBA state advisory council, at P.O. Box 2267, Bay St. Louis, MS 39521. Deadline for submitting nominations to Olsen is Oct. 31.

Nominees will be considered for the following categories: Small Business Person of the Year, Minority Small Business Advocate, Women in Business Advocate, Veteran Small Business Advocate, Accountant Advocate, Financial Services Advocate, Media Advocate, Small Business Exporter, Young Entrepreneur and Entrepreneurial Success Award.

Nominations must be typewritten on 8 1/2" by 11" paper and collated in a folder or notebook.

Nomination packages must include: the nominee's full name, title, business and home addresses and telephone numbers; the award for which the nomination is being made; a one-paragraph description of the nominee's business (for Small Business Person, Exporter, Entrepreneurial Success and Young Entrepreneur of the Year Award nominations) or profession/occupation (for Advocate of the Year Award nominations); the nominator's name, title, name of business/organization and business address and telephone number.

Nominations packages also must contain a clear statement of the nominee's merit for the award; data that support the nominee's merit for the award, such as news articles, audio and videotapes and correspondence; a 5" by 7" or 8" by 10" black and white portrait photograph of the nominee and other photographs to illustrate the nominee's merit; and a completed SBA Form 898, a biographical data form available from the SBA. Specific criteria used in evaluating nominations is available from the SBA and the Port and Harbor Commission office.

Incomplete nomination packages will not be considered for awards.

For further information, contact Olsen at 467-9231 or Charles Gillis, SBA director in Gulfport, at 863-4449.

Goblins to haunt Pearlington fire house

Halloween night the West Hancock Volunteer Fire Department will be transformed into the Pearlington Fire Station Haunted House. Located on Highway 604.

Visitors will walk through the maze of fright, as they confront the Devil, Jason, Dracula, Freddy Kruger, the Grim Reaper, Dracula's bride, the Mummy, the She-Devil and the wicked witch.

The yearly haunted house is held as a benefit for the volunteer fire department.

Christmas is on the way

A DIFFERENT VIEW

By Traci Boinney

I hope your eyeballs didn't pop out of your skull when you read this week's title. It isn't that far out in left field.

I know: Traci, you're skipping a major holiday here — you know, Turkey-and-dressing-eat-til-you-pop Day.

Chill, I haven't forgotten about the aforementioned food-fest — which, by the way, some of us still think of as Thanksgiving Day.

I'm simply stating the facts: Christmas, which is on a Wednesday this year (MAJOR bummer!) is less than 60 days away.

You're welcome. I'm glad to be the bearer of such wonderful news. Now, please stop strangling the newspaper.

Anyway, I'm not the first har-binger of Yuletide cheer — unless you haven't been shopping lately.

More than two months ago, I saw a very large stuffed Rudolph at a local mart. Then I started seeing craft project kits (understandable; it takes time to sew up some of that stuff).

The wrapping paper is already being sold — you know, the stuff with reindeer and jolly old elves and all that on it.

In addition, you can now get your tree (unless you're one of those die-hards who insists on a real tree) and some of the decorations for it.

I said it last year: I'll say it again. If this keeps up, those "Christmas in July" sales in some of the stores will include honest-to-goodness Christmas items in the next couple of years.

Hey, I don't have anything against planning ahead. I can't preach; I bought a Christmas present for a friend of mine in January, and I'm starting to look for other gifts right now.

Buying gifts, holiday wardrobe items or decoration project kits throughout the year is one thing; purchasing a giant reindeer in August is another matter entirely.

What are you going to do with Rudolph for the next four months after you bring him home? Put him in the attic? (Not smart; bugs and mice love stuffed toys like that.) Stick him in a corner and hope no one will notice? A giant reindeer is not likely to escape the attention of visitors, especially the pint-sized variety.

And as for other decorations (the pre-made ones), what's your plan — to put the tree up in October? To spend three months with lights strung all over your house?

Of course, considering that some of our local folks like to put out their Halloween stuff in September, I won't be surprised if the Christmas pretties go up November 1.

No, I'm not a Scrooge, nor am I a fuddy-duddy. I just think we get too caught up in the trappings sometimes, and forget what that holiday is about.

Don't worry; the soapbox is still under my desk. I think you can read what I mean.

If you enjoy planning for Christmas months in advance, go for it. I just hope your holiday spirit can be sustained that length of time. I'd hate to see you crash into the Yuletide blues in November.

I know it's a little early, but — Joyeux Noël, y'all.

Williams donates book

Cecil Williams presents to Prima Wusnack, Hancock County Library System director, a copy of DOS 5: A Developer's Guide, Advanced Programming Guide to DOS, written by his son, Al Williams. Al Williams, a native of Bay St. Louis, is employed by Jackson and Associates in Houston, Texas. He has served as a consultant to IBM on the Space Station Freedom Project and has been asked to address the Software Developers Conference for Computer Programmers next year in San Francisco. Williams and his wife Pat reside in Houston with their two-year-old son, Patrick. Williams' parents, Cecil and Bea Williams, are Bay St. Louis residents.

GOD ENABLED PEOPLE TO WRITE THE BOOKS THAT WE ENJOY

Have you ever thought about how empty our lives would be if it weren't for books? We have them in our homes and yet seldom appreciate the wealth of learning and enjoyment they have brought to us. They are relatively inexpensive, particularly the paperbacks, compared to what they offer us, and they may be borrowed free of charge from our local library. Books cover virtually every subject in the world; including science, history, astronomy, adventure, romance, westerns, mysteries, children's stories, advice on everything from cooking to gardening to home repair, etc., and religion, which includes the greatest book of all, the Bible. At your House of Worship, thank God for the ability He has granted to the authors of all those books, which have done so much to enrich our lives.

Without books, history is silent, literature dumb, science crippled, and speculation at a standstill. — Barbara W. Tuchman

"I suppose that... the world itself could not contain the books that should be written." — John 21:25

CIRCLES OF CONFUSION

All about
"photography 'n stuff"
By T.H. 'Doc' Toups

It started with cars. Years ago, some overpaid engineering types with too much time on their hands decided that cars should talk to their drivers. They programmed them to say clever things like, "Fasten your seat belt," and "Your door is ajar."

If a car has to talk to me, I'd like to have it say complimentary things like, "Nice controlled drift on that last curve, Buddy," or "Liked the way you handled that panic stop, Fella."

Of course, no provision is made for the driver to talk back to the car, and if you disagree with it, what can you threaten to do, turn off the ignition switch? I'm not really interested in talking to machines, except for my motorcycle, and most of what I say to it can't be published in a family newspaper.

The same engineers who put voices in cars must have gone to work for camera companies. Today's talking cameras aren't any better conversationalists than their automotive counterparts, and no provision is made to disagree with them.

Some of them actually have the temerity to stop you from making an exposure if they don't like what you're doing. All of this strikes me as being ingenious solutions to nonexistent problems. I'm from that Neanderthal school of photography where photographers tell cameras what to do and not vice-versa!

Several people have complained to me recently about the high cost of photo processing and have asked for suggestions to help them shoot on a budget.

If you are interested in shooting black and white film, the only inexpensive solution is to process it yourself. This is much easier than you might suppose and will help you to become a better photographer.

To get started, all you will need is a developing tank, chemistry and a thermometer. The initial outlay should be less than $20.

After you develop your negatives, you can produce a contact sheet of your images by laying the negatives over a sheet of photographic paper and covering them with a flat piece of glass.

Expose them to normal room light (for a period you will have to determine through trial and error) and process the paper in trays set in your bathtub.

Your pictures will only be as large as the negatives, but these tiny images will give you a good idea of what you want to send out to be printed. Kodak makes an inexpensive "Hobby Pack" for black and white printing which will get you started nicely.

If after experimenting with these procedures you are interested in buying an enlarger, 35mm models can be found on the second hand market for as little as $50-$100.

Color negative developing and printing at home is a much more expensive proposition, but shooting color neg doesn't have to clean out your bank account.

A number of firms specialize in mail order film developing and printing. One firm, Clark Color Labs, will develop and print 24 exposure color film for $2, exclusive of handling.

I use mail order firms for much of my non-critical color negative work and have never had a bad experience with any of the companies offering this service.

There is the risk of film being lost in the mail, but so far, this has never happened to me. The various mail order firms offer a number of inexpensive services in addition to basic processing, such as enlargement, custom posters, etc.

Bear in mind that the C-41 developing process for color negatives is the same for all films of this type. Realistically, you won't get any better development from one lab over another (unless they are doing something horribly wrong).

Color printing on the other hand is an area where custom printing can make a big improvement. The standard prints you get from virtually all labs are machine prints which are automatically printed with in preset specifications.

You don't have to accept these results at face value. Remember that a true custom print will almost always represent a great improvement over a machine print, especially if you want a certain effect. Be prepared to pay premium prices for custom work.

Well, that about wraps things up for this week's column. Now I can go outside and scream at my motorcycle. It never talks back to me.

WHY WAIT FOR A SALE

Winn-Dixie Has Every Day Low Prices Nobody Can Beat...NOBODY!

Let's Face It, there's no shortage of Supermarkets in your neighborhood. So, in order for a store to be successful they've got to do something real good. Shown here is a list of identical items (identical brand, size & package) compared head to head with two local competitors. We purchased items shown on October 16, 1991. Each item was compared and totaled. Winn-Dixie beat the competition on virtually every item. Some of our Competitors' prices may have changed by then. Come in and see for yourself that WINN-DIXIE offers big savings for you and your family every day of the week.

Sealed bids, in duplicate, will be received by the Hancock County School Board, in the office of the Superintendent, 7250 Stennis Airport Drive, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi until Monday, December 2, 1991, 4:30 p.m. for the RELOCATION OF A METAL BUILDING AND A/C OF EXISTING WEIGHT ROOM AREA FOR HANCOCK HIGH SCHOOL, HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT.

At which time they will be opened and read. Contract Documents may be obtained from: Hancock County School District, 7250 Stennis Airport Drive, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520 (601) 467-4466.

TOMPKINS, HANSEN & FIELDS, ARCHITECTS, 6500 Dogwood View Parkway, Garden Office, Suite E, Jackson, MS 39213 (601) 352-0345.

Prospective Bidders can obtain a set of Contract Documents upon deposit of $50.00 for each set, to be refunded upon return of each complete set in good condition within 15 days from opening bids, on the following basis:

1. To each bonafide bidder as a prime contract, the full amount of deposit will be refunded for the first set of plans and specifications.

2. For all other sets issued and returned, the amount of deposit less the sum of $25.00 will be refunded. This also will apply to each set in excess of one, from a bonafide bidder on a prime contract.

Copies of the Contract Documents may be examined at the office of the Hancock County School District. Bids will be required to comply with all public bid laws of the State of Mississippi.

Non-resident bidders attention is called to particular provisions Section 12 of Section 31-3-21, Miss. Code of 1972, Chapter 527, Laws of Mississippi Code of 1989, wherein it is required to be attached to his bid copy of such bidders residence state current law pertaining to such State's treatment of non-resident contractor.

All bids should be sealed and marked plainly on the outside of the envelope, "BID ENCLOSED FOR RELOCATION OF METAL BUILDING, BID #9204".

This Board reserves the right to waive irregularities and to reject any and all bids.

Terry Randolph, Superintendent
10-27; 11-3-91

Halloween the theme of library story hour

"Halloween Party" is the theme for this week's children's story hour at the City-County Public Library in Bay St. Louis.

A Dark, Dark Tale, The Night the Scarecrow Walked and George's Halloween are the books to be read at 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 30.

Children will receive a pumpkin coloring sheet, see a finger play and a film. They are asked to wear a costume, since this hour will be a Halloween party. "Balloons and Bubbles" will be the theme on Friday, Nov. 1 at 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Library.

The Magic Bubble Ride and Eyegore Has a Birthday and Gets Two Presents are the books to be featured. There will also be finger plays and a flannelboard story.

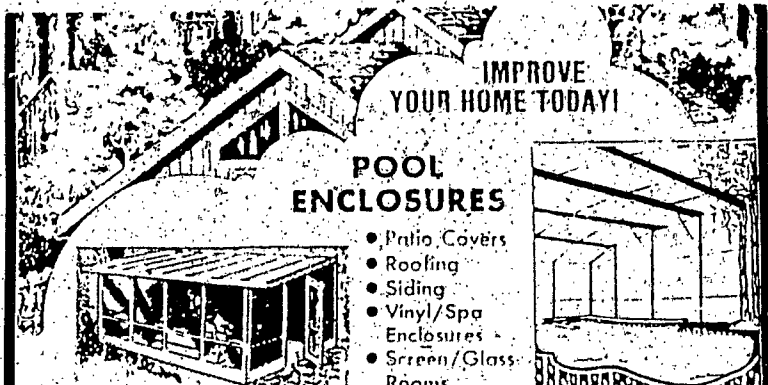

Children will receive coloring sheets and participate in bubble blowing and balloon flying events.

Weekly story hours are held at the City-County Public Library and the Waveland Library from September through May. Programs last approximately one hour.

Programs and activities are designed for pre-school-age children three to five years of age who are not part of a nursery or pre-school group. Further information is available by calling Sandra Ladner at the City-County Library at 467-5282, or Karen Peoples at the Waveland Library at 467-9240.

Midshipman Walker joins U.S. Merchant Marines

Midshipman Nicholas S. Walker of Pass Christian recently participated in Acceptance Day ceremonies at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y.

The colorful event annually marks the official "acceptance" of the freshman, or plebe, class into the ranks of the academy's regiment of midshipmen.

Midshipman Nicholas Walker

A 1991 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School, Midshipman Walker, with some 285 plebes, was administered the academy oath by the U.S. Maritime Administrator, Capt. Warren Leback.

Midshipman Walker was nominated to the Academy by Senator Thad Cochran.
